

5

Abstract

10 In accordance with the present invention a thermal barrier for a cabinet having a door storage area is disclosed comprising a curtain having vertical slits dividing the curtain into flaps; an attachment device for securing the curtain within the cabinet; and a displacement apparatus for displacing at least one of the flaps from contact with adjacent flaps when the cabinet 15 is closed allowing air within the cabinet to circulate to the door storage area.

0902410-073001